WELL USED TALENT

"There is one talent which is death to hide," but our community is not concealing its greatest physical asset under a lid of complacency and inactivity.

Our major talent is the long level muck land stretching flat to the horizon. This rich soil is being used to raise young people developing initiative and responsibility through taking charge of their own projects on their own land.

This program involves 37 Glades FFA boys many of whom do not afford the initial price of getting started in the small scale cattle business. Through this plan, the boys will not only learn the practical business of raising cattle by actually doing it but they will also gain an insight into the business procedure of borrowing and repaying capital and operating their activities so as to produce a profit.

This is probably the first large scale program of this kind to be developed here, and it was accomplished through the cooperation of the Rotary Club, local bank officials who made the loans possible, the FFA instructor and local cattlemen.

With the assistance of Leland Pearce, local cattleman, the FFA students purchased 40 Brahman yearlings and seven Gurney and Jersey bred heifers averaging between 270 and 445 pounds for a total price of $4,500. Approximately half of the animals will be supplemented fed and bridge broken for the annual Southeastern Livestock Show and Fat Cattle Sale held here in the spring.

Each FFA boy is responsible for paying the note at the time of the animal's sale or within a year from the purchase date. At Random Rotary members drew the boys' names whose notes they would sign and whose responsibility they would assume.

Although this is the first project of this kind of such magnitude, the local FFA post has been sponsoring a similar plan for several years. Its program is operated through a revolving fund from which local youths are lent the purchase price of animals. When the loan is repaid, the proceeds go back into the fund to help other boys.

The fact that these groups are utilizing the Glades greatest physical asset, the land, in the most profitable way shows the community's deep concern in the development of its greatest interest, the next generation.

TEACHERS PAY HIKE

Many of the best teachers and instructors in the county are leaving the profession for other fields and the state for areas where the pay scale is higher, the school board reports.

The increase in federal taxes to be effected this month and the continual rise of the cost of living has placed a strain on teachers' state salaries.

The additional millage, if approved, will not be paid by the homebased exempted freeholder but by owners of real estate valued at more than $5000 or those without homebased exemption. The hike will mean three dollars, or even more than three dollars of assessed valuation.

Only 51 per cent of the majority of these voting must approve the millage in order for it to pass. If a voter is registered and has paid a tax, he will sign an affidavit to that effect before casting his ballot at the polls Tuesday.

the land will pay for itself in five years and then if it is ruined, we've gotten our value out of it.

John Pickett, civil engineer, Pahokee, strongly advised that the FCD obtain data contained in reports taken prior to 1924 and 1925 on the grounds that these may have a direct bearing on the soil subsidence problem.

"Every day I get inquiries from promoters on the opportunities available in Glades undeveloped lands but until water control measures are further developed and more information on the future of the land is obtained, I can not give adequate advice," said M. U. Mounts, county agent. "If these developments are carried forward rapidly, the investments will be available to us, and we'll make the land pay off."

Relating first hand observations of the "land were Bob Creech, Sr., George H. Wedge, John Luther Jones, city, and John Tiedke, Moore Haven.

Illustrating that subsidence can be substantially slowed by proper practices, Bob Creech stated that his land has subsided less than six inches in 30 years. "I have spent many thousands of dollars in growing cover crops to replenish the soil and to maintain a uniform water table."

"Glades lands will be productive for farming just as long as common sense methods are used by those who farm the lands," he said.
